

C.J. the best at Lakeland Rodeo Showdown

It's true. When all is said and done, usually it's the very best that wins in the end. At least that was the case at the Lakeland Rodeo Association' finals Sunday at the Polaris Arena. Especially in the novice horse riding competition.

C.J. Best, a 17-year-old cowboy from Heinsburg, won the Novice Horse Riding championship in the final go-round when he rode Holy Moses for a 64.5 -- his best score of the LRA finals.

Best entered Sunday's final with 70 points -- five behind Brad Lueders of Sherwood Park.

"I was thinking just go out there and try my best and hope the horse goes good and bucks hard. I had a good horse (Holy Moses) -- a good kicking horse."

But still he didn't have it in the bag -- if Lueders could beat Best's 64.5, he would win the championship.

And at first glance, it appeared Lueders did.

Lueders rode St. Paul for the full eight seconds to what appeared to be a high score, but the judges ruled Lueders missed out -- that he had failed to spur St. Paul as he left the gate.

"I didn't realize what happened," Best said. "I thought he had a good ride, probably good enough to beat me."

Best won the competition with 100 points, winning the third round and finishing second in both the second and final round. Points are based on 40 points for finishing first, 30 for second, 20 for third and 10 for first.

Best plans to step up to the bareback riding next year.

--- Bull riding ---

The key to bull riding is hanging on for dear life -- and nobody did it better than Derek Adams of Mayerthorpe at the LRA finals last week.

Adams successfully rode three out of his five bulls. Winning the third go-round and finishing second in the fourth go-round and fourth in the first for 80 points.

Kevin Shannnon finished second with 70 points.

Adams was bucked off on his final ride Sunday by Cocaine but had already won the championship when the other cowboys in contention for the championship, Shannon, Jim Thompson, Kirk Jackknife and Derek Hehr, had been previously bucked off.

Being bucked off wasn't an uncommon thing. The bulls won this rodeo. Thirty-three of a possible 50 rides ended up with a no score.

St. Paul cowboy Dion Roscoe finished second in the opening go-round Thursday but was injured during Friday night's performance.

-- Ladies Barrel Racing --

Jodie Hollingworth of Valleyview had the competition over the barrel at the LRA finals. Hollingworth won the LRA Ladies Barrel Racing championship by accumulating 180 points. She won the first, second and fourth go-round and finishing second in the third and fifth go-round.

Her 180 points was the highest total among all competitors at the rodeo.

The fastest run of the rodeo was by Janet Olson who turned the barrels in 13.354 seconds Sunday.

Deb McKenzie of Lafond finished third in the finals with 70 points. McKenzie and her horse, Brownie, won Saturday afternoon's go-round.

-- Junior Barrel Racing --

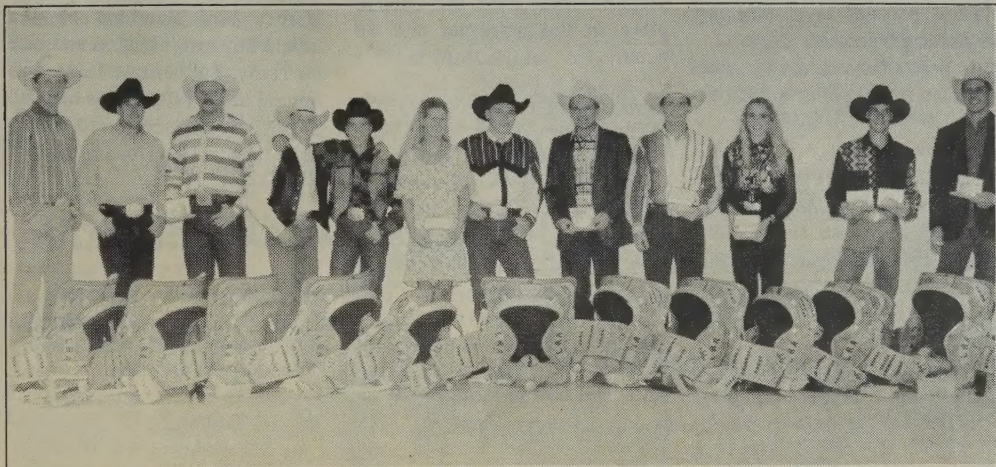

Elk Point's Erica Nielsen missed winning an LRA championship in Junior Barrel Racing by less than 1/10 of a second.

Sayward Russell of St. Albert won the title with a time of 13.936 in a ride off against her sister, Lauren Russell, and Nielsen.

Lauren finished second with a time of 13.994 while Nielsen was third at 14.040. All three competitors were tied after the five go-rounds with 120 points.

Nielsen entered Sunday's go-round with 120 points, 40 more than Sayward and 30 more than Lauren. The three riders ended up tied when

Terry Fox run goes
September 18

Terry Fox was a man with a dream. After losing his right leg to cancer in 1977, this courageous young man decided to run across Canada to raise money for cancer research. His journey, the Marathon of Hope, resulted in his running 26 miles per day for 143 days. He did not reach his distance goal, dying in June 1981 without completing the trek, but having surpassed his fundraising goal of $1 from every Canadian.

Since Terry's death, others have taken up his cause, raising over $135 million to support innovative cancer research in what has become the largest single-day fundraiser for cancer research in the world.

Last year, 29 Elk Point and area residents ran, jogged, walked or cycled 10 kilometres to earn $2623.09 in pledges for this most worthy cause. Now it's time to do it again. On Sunday, September 18, residents are urged to turn out for an afternoon of brisk exercise which will bring a glow to your cheeks as well as to your heart, as you help to carry on Terry's dream. Letters have been sent to the Pioneer Circle seniors and to the local oil companies, seeking their involvement in the event.

The general public is also urged to join in the run, either as participants or by sending in a donation. A donation coupon is included in this issue. Pledge forms for those who wish to run, walk, ride or jog are available at the Town Office, Dave's Pizza, the Empress Restaurant, Hillside Service and F. G. Miller High School.

Trappers, Traders
honored at Forts

The third season for Fort George - Buckingham House Historic Site winds up this weekend with a gala salute to Trappers and Traders, September 10 and 11.

Members of the Edmonton House Black Powder Brigade will be exhibiting their old-style talents at the Buckingham House site both Saturday and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. The Alberta Trappers' Association will be on hand with a display on Sunday, and musical entertainment is also scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Make sure to come out to 'the Forts' for your final visit of the year, at this salute to the men and women of the fur trade. Everyone welcome!

C.J. the Best at LRA finals

-- Saddle Bronc --

Scott Bresee of Ponoka won the Saddle Bronc championship in a ride off with Gary Seutter. Both Bresee and Seutter finished with 120 points after Sunday's go round.

Bresee won the ride off with a score of 76.5 on Fancy Legs. He was bucked off after 8.1 seconds - just .1 seconds more than the required eight seconds.

Suetter successfully rode Darktown for 72 points in the ride off.

-- Bareback --

Dan Bertsch proved to be a pain in the back for horses at the LRA finals as he successfully rode all five of his rides in accumulating 165 points and winning the bareback bronc riding championship.

Foss Irwin, the number-one seed going into the finals, finished second with 135 points.

Bertsch also turned in the best ride of the finals with a 78.5 on Tumbleweed Saturday night.

St. Paul native Ted Hehr finished with 30 points.

-- Steer Wrestling --

Drayton Valley cowboy Reg Pomeranz looked like the Edmonton Eskimos' Willie Pless as he tackled every steer in sight to win the steer wrestling competition.

Pomeranz finished in the money in all five go-rounds and wound up with 145 points. Pomeranz was ultra-consistent -- he never had a time over five seconds during his five attempts.

Dean Lawes finished second with 85 points. Lawes had the fastest time of the rodeo with 3.8 seconds.

-- Calf roping --

Travis Spady of Alliance won the calf roping with 90 points finishing just ahead of Gordon Gulick of Wetaskiwin with 80 points.

Spady went into Sunday's final go-round second with 60 points, 20 points ahead of Gulick but five back of Lance Tulloch.

Gulick won Sunday's go-round with a time of 10 seconds flat but couldn't claim the championship as Spady's time of 10.9 seconds was good for second place in the go-round and 30 points.

Tulloch ended up roping a stubborn calf and turned in a time of 22.3 seconds Sunday.

-- Team roping --

The team roping event was won by the duo of Murray Linthicum from Glentworth and Rocky Dallyn from Calgary. The pair finished with 130 points and successfully roped four out of their five calves.

-- Junior Bull riding --

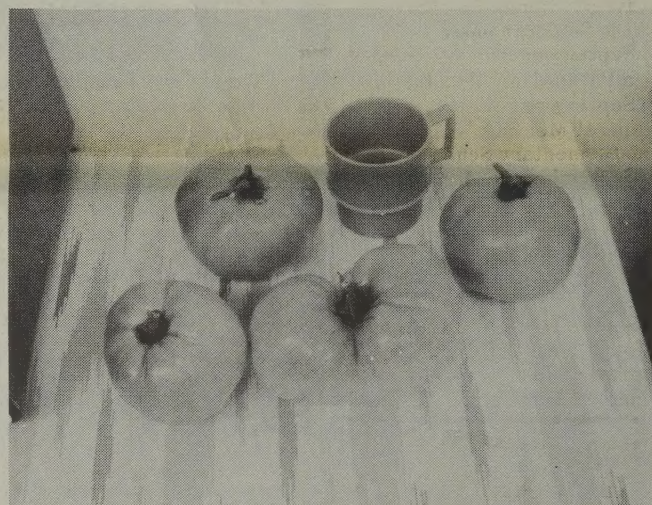

There were co-champions in the Junior Bull riding as Shaun Low of Mayerthorpe and Jace Harty of Lacombe both finished with 130 points.

Low and Harty rode in a ride-off but no winner was selected as Harty's bull stumbled on the infield turf -- resulting in a re-ride for Harty. But because Harty was injured in the fall, it was decided to name co-champions rather than risk injury to Harty in a re-ride.

Grandparents' Day Celebration

Community information night set for September 20

We've Moved

Family and Community Support Services (FCSS) is now located in our new office at the Peter Fidler Centre (the old Senior's Centre) at 4902-51 Street. Renovations are still being completed, but phones have been installed and we are open for business. Office hours are 8:30 to 4:30 Monday through Friday. Your patience and understanding is appreciated as we get unpacked and settled. Special thanks to Ron Fraess and staff, Bill Schumacher and all the others (you know who you are!) for all their time, effort and assistance with this move.

For any new or existing residents who might be unfamiliar with FCSS, we encourage you to phone or drop by for a visit to learn about the programs and services we provide to the community. FCSS believes in the value of the individual, the strength of the family, and the concept of people working together to achieve a healthy, supportive community. Our philosophy is "people helping people to help themselves." Volunteer assistance is greatly relied upon and we welcome community input and direction. Drop by or call us, we'd love to hear from you!

Information Night

F.C.S.S. is hosting Information Night on Tuesday, September 20 between 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at the Elks Hall. Information Night is an opportunity for residents to become aware of what is available to them right in their own community in terms of services, clubs, recreation, education and so forth. The evening can be especially valuable to newcomers in the community because so many of the non-profit groups and agencies are showcased together under one roof at one time.

But you don't have to be new to the community to appreciate what is available. Every year brings new exhibits and special attractions. This year will feature a dynamic display by the Elk Point Flying Club, special features from Further Education, participation from Radio LW, facepainting and more!

Some groups use the event as an opportunity to take registrations for the coming season. Many exhibitors also have draws for great prizes. Be sure to come out with your family and friends to the 10th Annual Information Night. See you there!

Interagency

The Elk Point and District Interagency Committee meets the first Tuesday of each month at the Seniors' Recreation Centre from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. This month's meeting is on Tuesday, September 6. Some past and present projects of Interagency include: International Year of the Family activities, Community Advisory Committee coordination, Getting Your House in Order workshop and mini-presentations on a variety of topics / trends. If you are interested in participating or hearing more about this committee, call Jim MacLellan at 724-4194.

Community Advisory Committee

Just a reminder of the Community Advisory Committee (CAC) meeting on Wednesday, September 7 at the Seniors' Recreation Centre. The committee will work in partnership with the RCMP and community to assist in developing priorities for policing in our community. The CAC will consist of representatives from a cross-section of the community (youth, county, chamber, town, seniors, human services, etc.). Anyone interested in hearing more about this committee or who is interested in serving on the CAC is invited to attend this meeting.

Back to the real world

The famed 'lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer' have slipped away incredibly fast, and here we are, back in the real world of school, jobs, and community activities.

If each of us were required to write the traditional back-to-school essay on 'How I Spent My Summer Vacation,' we would tell stories of travel adventures, long days in the cab of a tractor, endless rows of weedy garden, big fish getting away, and days shut in an air-conditioned office when we longed to be out in the sweltering heat, having fun.

Many of us would have tales to relate which are very special in this Year of the Family, as they gathered with relatives far and near for reunions. Remember, we would like to hear about those, so please bring in a story about your family reunion (one typed page is a good length) and be sure to include a picture (color is fine). We will print those as we have room.

Just a few thoughts on family life, now that numerous groups are getting underway - Chamber of Commerce, the Community Advisory Committee, Interagency, Ukrainian Dance, Girl Guides, Minor Hockey, you name it. There is no possible chance of having 'nothing to do' all winter, with all these activities in the offing. However, as we head off to sign up, let's remember to save some time for our families to be together, enjoying each other's company.

School started yesterday, and even though you parents haven't caught your breath yet, it's time to start thinking about ways to help your children be successful at school - by encouraging them to read, by providing a suitable place for them to study, by being willing to lend a helping hand with school programs and projects when time permits. Volunteering at the school helps keep the cost of education, and therefore, our taxes, down, and can also be fun.

Learning through play

A Special Series in Recognition of the International Year of the Family

Play is serious business. It's a child's way of exploring the world, figuring things out, learning new skills, making new friends. Do all you can to encourage play time... alone, with young friends and with the family.

Play is not as simple as it sounds. In a child's early life, play is as important as food and good care. It can be a part of all the daily experiences between parent and child - feeding, dressing, housework, shopping.

There's the exploratory play of a baby. There's play at almost every age: games of make-believe, constructing things out of puzzles and models; play with paints, cut-outs and clay; outdoor play with a ball.

LEARNING THROUGH PLAY

Play helps your child to learn about himself and the world around him. He discovers how to solve problems. He learns self-control, co-operation, confidence. He masters new skills and expresses himself creatively.

Good, hard play aids both physical and mental development. Moving, running and yelling are all parts of play.

It's a pity that most of us stop playing when we grow up. Play is good for us.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF PLAY

Play is learning by pretending to be a mummy or daddy, doctor or nurse, teacher, postman, policeman. At times this play-acting also expresses anger, fear, pleasure and so on. It's a healthy outlet.

Play can be creative as well. But to encourage self-expression, your child must have praise and recognition. Be interested!

A CHILD NEEDS PLAYMATES

By playing with others, he begins to discover his own strengths and weaknesses. He develops feelings of belonging and importance. Usually each child in a group is good at some activity. Each can enjoy being a leader sometimes.

Play with other children can be arranged with neighbors, in park programs, play groups, etc. Visit the program yourself. Talk with the group leaders. See if you find it a safe and happy place.

PARENTS ARE PLAYMATES, TOO

You can do more than just provide the materials for play. Join in. Play checkers or Monopoly, do the difficult gluing on the model plane; rough-house in the park.

Play can be a part of many activities, including shopping.

But be sure to let your children take the lead. Adults are inclined to take charge, perhaps even compete. It's the child's self-confidence that needs building, not yours.

Remember that camping trips, hikes, summer vacations and Saturday outings are a chance to share activities. The bonds of companionship and understanding will help you deal with the ups and downs of family life.

STARTING SCHOOL IS A BIG STEP FOR BOTH OF YOU

Many children "play school." Their ideas of what school will be like are shaped by older sisters and brothers, and by parents. Be positive about school. Describe it as something you'll share and enjoy with the child, a place to make new friends and learn exciting new things.

Try to give your child a glimpse of school life before he starts. Is there an open house for preschoolers? Are there sports events or games that the family can attend?

Perhaps the strongest influence is the attitude of older children. Do they jokingly put down schools, teachers and the whole system? Don't let them sour your preschooler before he has a chance to put his foot in the door.

Once in school, children should be encouraged to choose their own friends and to bring them home. But parents face a dilemma: extreme freedom or tight control over friends? Trust him and help him solve any problem that develops. He may choose a timid friend because he himself feels timid. He may choose an outspoken friend because he wants to be like him. If he is being "used" by another child and given no chance to develop on his own, the friendship should be discouraged.

At nine or ten, expect the "gang" stage of secret clubs. Encourage wider activities: Cubs, Brownies, the 'Y,' 4-H Clubs, church groups. Look into organized recreation programs in the community.

Now and then, stand back and watch your child at play. You'll pick up little clues that will tell you a great deal about how he's growing.

GOOD TOYS VS. BAD TOYS

Here are four ways to spot the good toys:

1. As well as being appealing, they suit the child's age and abilities.
2. They have several parts which can be juggled around for creative play.
3. They stimulate your child to learn more difficult and complicated skills.
4. They are built to last - no sharp corners, no poisonous paints, no loose bolts.

Don't be fooled by bright colors, fancy boxes and big prices. Home-made toys are often the most appealing and creative.

PLAN YOUR CHILD'SPLAY ACTIVITIES

Try to develop a pattern of daily activity: time for social and solitary play, reading, studying, helping around the home, special projects such as music lessons or pets. As he grows older, he can join in the planning.

It helps if you have both outdoor and indoor space for play, with a permanent corner that's all his for projects, games and books. If his boundaries of time and space are well thought out and discussed with him, his life and yours will run more smoothly.

It often helps if parents of children who play together a great deal can set common guidelines. A bed-time of 7:30 p.m. in one house and 9:00 p.m. next door can lead to chaos.

Never under-estimate the value of play. Encourage it. Look into the programs of toy lending libraries. 'Y' programs, day-care centres, social agencies, nursery school associations, etc.

Play has an important place in developing the character traits and personality that your child will carry through life.

St. Paul toxic roundup

Allan Frankiw
Norcen Energy Resources

Friday, September 9 is an important day in St. Paul. It's the annual household toxic roundup day. This is a day where all residents can bring their household toxic waste and have it disposed of safely by trained personnel.

I am proud that my company, Norcen Energy Resources, is funding this program again in St. Paul in association with the Alberta Special Waste Management Corporation.

It is important that we have community participation. Otherwise, the community may lose this valuable program that is good for our environment.

I encourage everyone to mark September 9 on their calendars. Check your homes, garages and sheds - places where hazardous wastes accumulate, and bring them to the St. Paul Fire Department on September 9 between 4 and 8 p.m.

This 4-H is for the birds

Want to join 4-H, but you're not sure about such activities as halter breaking a reluctant steer or coaxing its coat into show-day condition? Taralee and James Babenek have found a project in which they never have to do either of these tasks. They're raising pheasants.

The Babeneks hosted an Achievement Day last Wednesday, with a good crowd of friends and neighbors, in addition to Elk Point 4-H Multi-Club overall leader Lorraine Danyluk and Alberta Fish and Wildlife representative Wayne Brown, on hand to tour the facility and enjoy the sight of the lively birds in their adopted habitat.

These birds were hatched June 1, at that time being so small that three would fit in the palm of a hand, and are now a good size and beginning to display the attractive plumage the species is famous for. Their handsome pen, with wire mesh walls and roof and a metal strip banked with gravel to prevent escapes around the bottom, is flanked by a shed where they can get out of the rain and a round wood granary which served as their first home. Survival has been excellent - out of 26 birds apiece, the teens have raised 25, with a lone fatality in each group. One bird escaped, but was retrieved by diligent searching and was captured with a fish net.

Their spacious flight cage is furnished with a straw bale maze covered with leafy tree branches, a tree and pole roost festooned with sweet clover, and an alfalfa hay bale for nibbling. The birds are shy, and without the cover to hide in, tend to become nervous and pick each other. The Babeneks plan to plant sweet clover and fall rye in the pen next spring for their 1995 flock. The birds have graduated from starter feed to grower feed, and also enjoy scratching for wheat sprinkled in their pen.

4-HERS AND THEIR BIRDY BUDDIES - Taralee and James Babenek don't have to halterbreak or groom these 4-H projects - their 3-month-old pheasants just have to be fed, watered and given shelter, such as the bale and branch maze at left of the photo, and the tree festooned with sweet clover in the centre.

ALL EARS AND LEGS - Was Bernard Boeckmann's first impression of this infant donkey, born a week before this photo was taken. The young jack's parents are used for halter breaking cattle at Boeckmann's Spring Creek Red Angus Ranch. The youngster is growing fast and getting cuter by the minute.

There's a fine line between safe and sorry.

Electricity is a fact of life. In fact, it's so much a part of everyday life that people forget the potential for accidents. Any contact with overhead power lines or exposed wires can cause serious injury. And underground power lines are equally dangerous to anyone who digs without locating them. Understanding how electricity works can keep you, and those close to you, safe. When it comes to electricity, what you don't know can hurt you. For more information on electrical safety, call your local Alberta Power office.

What's News at the Library

Michele Duczek
Librarian

Another September has snuck up on us. Anyone who has spent time in school (and that is the majority of us) remembers the excitement and fear that the first day of school brings. To all the students and teachers beginning another year in the trenches I just have this to say... good luck. I spent most of my life in school, thirteen years in elementary and high school and eight years in university. I'm thinking another ten years of working for a living and my student loans will be paid off and I can begin another round of academia. (I hope my dad never reads this, he'd have a cow.)

Speaking of animals, one of the new picture books added to our collection is Anthony and the Aardvark by Lesley

Sloss with pictures by Gus Clarke. This engaging tale tells the story of what happens when Anthony's short-sighted grandparents mistakenly take home a baby aardvark from the zoo instead of their grandson. Both Anthony and the aardvark learn that the grass isn't always greener on the other side of the cage.

Bub, or the Very Best Thing by Natalie Babbitt is a beautifully illustrated story about a little prince. The king and queen cannot agree on what is best for their son, more toys or more lessons. Everyone has an opinion until someone suggests that the prince be asked what is the best thing. "Bub" is his response - but what is Bub?

Alberta celebrated its 89th birthday on September 1.

Thank You

ZACHARUK, Mary
(nee Smoliak)

Words cannot express the way we feel, and "thank-you" just doesn't seem adequate. Our sincere appreciation to Dr. Guynock, Dr. Bailey and especially Dr. McAllister and Dr. Simmons and all the nurses and staff at Red Deer Regional Hospital who participated in the care of Mary Zacharuk.

A special thanks to all our kind aunts and uncles, and friends and neighbors who brought food, flowers and cards, but most of all for the supportive care and companionship they provided during this time of sudden loss of a dear mother, sister to some, grandmother and great-grandmother and friend.

Thank you very much, we love you all.

Peter and Lillian Zacharuk, Victor and Theresa Zacharuk, Walter and Shirley Zacharuk, Ronald and Elsie Swift, Robert and Betty Clayton, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Both Alberta and Saskatchewan were established on September 1, 1905.

Thank You

The Leon Babcock Family would like to express their heartfelt thanks to all the friends and neighbors for all the cards and letters and for their compassionate support in their time of sorrow.

Very special thanks to John Yewchin for following Leon's instructions to the letter. Also grateful thanks to Caroline Yewchin for her kindness and consideration.

Seven Secrets to Coping With Change in Small Towns

1. Positive Attitude: The attitude of people in leadership may be the most important quality of those communities that view change as a challenge to their abilities to innovate and to service.

2. Entrepreneurial Spirit: The community must be willing to take risks and the public and private sectors have to work together, learning from failures and successes alike.

3. Bias for Action: In viable communities, people are not waiting for someone else to tell them what to do.

4. Focus on Controllables: Communities must focus on what they can control, not on factors outside their control.

5. Plan for Development: By working together to write down a plan for development, communities can take hold of their own futures and then carry out their plans with specific blueprints for towns.

6. Strategic Outlook: Communities must be insightful enough to find opportunities where others see threats ... to put their competitive advantages forward.

7. Vision for the Future:

Communities need to be able to answer the community development equivalent of the key question in private enterprise: "What business are we in?"

All Long Distance calls within Alberta require you to dial the 403 area code.

North America is running out of numbers.

With the growing demand for modern telecommunications equipment such as fax machines, modems and cellular phones, over 13,500 new telephone numbers are requested every day.

To meet this demand, the North American Numbering Plan is being modified to add more area codes. As a result, we will have to change the way we dial. Now, whenever you call long distance, even within Alberta, you must dial the area code.

For example, in Alberta dial 1 (or 0) + 403 + seven digit number. The way you dial local calls does not change.

This message is brought to you by AGT working with telecommunications companies across North America. For more information, call 1-800-363-2633.

Remember:
Dial the 403
area code on all
Long Distance calls made within Alberta.
